

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for packaging travel services for a customer is provided, wherein a travel package profile is defined. Communication is established with a plurality of travel service providers, wherein each of the providers is associated with one or more travel service inventories. A plurality of travel services available from the travel service inventories is identified, and one or more of the travel services is selected. The selected travel services are then presented as a travel package to the customer.